

ADVANTAGES

- Stainless steel internal construction with full face or parallel media bed arrangement
- Up to 3 bed arrangement for targetting multiple gases
- Predicted removal efficiency and lifetime by Camfil's proprietary software
- Contact time 1 - 2 seconds, air flows 1000 - 28,000 m3/h
- Optional prefilter, final filter, and fan sections
- Double skin for internal temperature control

|                      |                                                                             |
|----------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Frame                | Stainless steel;Steel, painted                                              |
| Media                | Activated Carbon;Impregnated Activated Carbon;Impregnated Activated Alumina |
| Max Temperature (°C) | 90                                                                          |